NEW PLAN ADOPTED FOR FLOATING F-4

Failure to Raise the Submarine by Cables Results in Using Pontoon Method.

Honolulu, April 1.—As a result of the Navy Department's authorization of $20,000 for the work of raising the submarine F-4, believed to be waterlogged on the ocean bed just outside the harbor entrance, officials here, under the leadership of Lieutenant C. E. Smith, submarine flotilla commander, have made plans for salvage operations on a big scale.

All efforts to raise by cables on object said by officials to be the lost F-4 having failed, the pontoon method will now be used. Six hundred ton scows will be towed to the spot beneath which, in forty-five fathoms of water, the submarine is believed to be lying.

After the scows have been weighted with water, chains hooked to the F-4 will be attached to them. Then the water will be pumped out of the scows and their hulls rising they will lift the bulk below. The laborious process will be continued until the submarine is brought to the surface. Lieutenant Smith said last night it probably would be three days before further attempts to raise the F-4 would be made. Late yesterday it was stated a light line was hooked on the submarine and will be maintained as a guide to the sunken craft.

German vessels, warbound in Honolulu harbor, have volunteered the loan of all their salvage apparatus.

A huge diving tube, which engineers have been constructing, was completed Wednesday night. It was submerged thirty-five feet and was left in the harbor until this morning to test its stability.

The city has been scoured to obtain 700 feet of reinforced hose to be used for air tubes.

Twenty-one coffins have been delivered at the navy dock for the ill-fated crew of the F-4.
